PRESIDENT-ELECT:

Professor G. J. ALLMAN, M.D., LL.D., F.R.S. L. and E., M.R.I.A.

NOTICE to CONTRIBUTORS of MEMOIRS.—Authors are reminded that, under an arrangement dating from 1871, the acceptance of Memoirs, and the days on which they are to be read, are now, as far as possible, determined by Organising Committees for the several Sections before the beginning of the Meeting. It has therefore become necessary, in order to give an opportunity to the Committees of due justice to the several Communications, that each Author should prepare beforehand an Abstract of his Memoir, of a length suitable for insertion in the published Transactions of the Association, and the Council request that he will send it, together with the original Memoir, by book-post, on or before July 15, addressed thus:—“General Secretaries, British Association, 22 Albemarle Street, London, W. For Section . . . . .” Authors who comply with this request, and whose Papers are accepted, will be furnished before the Meeting with printed copies of their Reports or Abstracts. If it should be inconvenient to the Author that his Paper should be read on any particular day, he is requested to send information thereof to the Secretaries in a separate note.

No Report, Paper, or Abstract can be inserted in the Report of the Association unless it is in the Assistant-Secretary's hands before the conclusion of the Meeting. J. E. H. GORDON, Assistant-Secretary.

His remarks upon the evidence which is generally adduced to prove the extreme age of individuals are perspicuous and sound. This portion of the work is carefully executed, and will have interest to those whose vocation calls them to deal with evidence. No one but Sir George C. Lewis could have undertaken such a work, and even he could not have produced a more practical and intelligent book."

RENÉ DESCARTES: his Life and Meditations. A New Translation of the "Meditations," with Introduction, Memoir, and Commentary. By RICHARD LOWNDES, Author of "An Introduction to the Philosophy of Primary Beliefs."

"Exceedingly well adapted to introduce the student to Descartes, and through him to the history of one main development of modern thought. . . . Our author's attempt to elucidate the real aim and purport of the 'Meditations,' and to show the bearing of that work on recent philosophic discussions, is well conceived and executed. . . . His commentary foreshadows with sufficient distinctness the transformation of the problems of Descartes in the hands of Kant, and gives to the English reader, in language singularly clear from perplexing technicalities, an account of the main characteristics of the German as contrasted with our own way of approaching and dealing with philosophic questions."—Saturday Review.

From the Right Rev. the Bishop of GLOUCESTER AND BRISTOL.

"A useful, valuable, and instructive Commentary. It contains a large amount of information, is judiciously illustrated, and, so far as I can judge, is likely to be of great use. I have not tested it in difficult doctrinal passages, but I see in it nothing to lead me to doubt that it would stand the test. Its design seems to be that of a popular Commentary, and this design, it seems to me, it has fully carried out."

From the Right Rev. the Bishop of WINCHESTER.

"I have looked into this volume and read several of the notes on crucial passages. They seem to me very well done, with great fairness and with evident knowledge of the controversies concerning them. The illustrations are very good. I cannot doubt that the book will prove very valuable."

From the Very Rev. EDWARD BICKERSTETH, D.D., Dean of Lichfield, and Prolocutor of Canterbury.

"I have been looking into this volume, and I am much struck with the fulness and accuracy of the annotations, wherever I have examined them, as well as with the general excellence of the work."

"Mrs. Hutchinson's book is entertaining throughout; she has what used to be called 'a lively pen,' and her descriptions are vivid without straining after effect or what, by a strange confusion of metaphors, is termed word painting. ## SAMUEL TINSLEY & CO.'S NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The Newest Works of Fiction, at all Libraries.

NOTICE.—NEW NOVEL by the Popular Author of "Love's Conflict," "Woman Against Woman," "Petronel," &c.

A BROKEN BLOSSOM. By Flo-RENCE MARRIAT. Author of "Love's Conflict," "Woman Against Woman," &c. 3 vols. 31s. 6d.

"Deserves to be ranked as the most artistic and altogether the best work of fiction its clever and prolific author has yet written."

Scotsman.

NOTICE.—NEW STORY by the Popular Author of "Meg,"
"The Curate's Discipline," "Woman's Wrong," &c.

HOW HE WON HER. By Mrs.

ELIOT, Author of "Meg," "The Curate's Discipline,"
"Woman's Wrong," &c. 3 vols. 21s. 6d.

The Pall Mall Gazette says:—"Certainly the best novel Mrs. Eliot has ever written."

John Bull says:—"How He Won Her," is a very pleasant story, written without exaggeration, and maintaining a moderate, equable degree of merit from beginning to end.... To the manner and style of the author we have nothing but praise to give."

The Scotsman says:—"A book that can be read with unmixed enjoyment by people of all ranks and of all ages."

NEW NOVEL by the Popular Author of "St. Simon's Niece,"
"Miss Dorothy's Charge," &c.

HER FRIEND LAURENCE. By

FRANK LEE BENEDICT, Author of "St. Simon's Niece," &c.
3 vols. 31s. 6d.

CATCHING a TARTAR. By G.

WEBB APPLETON, Author of "Frozen Hearts," 3 vols.
31s. 6d.

The Spectator says:—"The narrative moves on briskly, and never lets the attention flag. That the plot has many faults (the too surprising and numerous coincidences constituting one chief defect) may be readily understood.... But the novel has the essential merit of being readable. The person, with his sham earnestness and surface-gift of attractive sensibility, is a character of more than average power."

The Athenaeum says:—"Both in style and construction the author has manifestly set himself to produce his best work, and the result may be considered a success."

John Bull says:—"Catching a Tartar" is an immense advance on the author's last novel, "Frozen Hearts." The reader's interest is seized in the first chapter, and it may safely be said that there is not a dull page in the book from the first to the last....
Taken as a whole, "Catching a Tartar" is a bright and thoroughly interesting novel, which anyone who begins will be pretty certain to finish."

THE BLACK SQUIRE; or, a Lady's

Four Wishes. By DAVES. 3 vols. 31s. 6d.

The Spectator says:—"The Black Squire" is well worth reading."

The Athenaeum says:—"The Black Squire" is a good story."

The Scotsman says:—"The Black Squire" is undoubtedly a very clever novel, with plenty of interest apart from its political and ecclesiastical peculiarities."

THE MASTER of REDLEAF. By

ELIZABETH A. MERIWETHER. 3 vols. 31s. 6d.

PHILIP LYNDON'S TROUBLES.

By EDITH OWEN BOURNE. 3 vols. 31s. 6d. [This day.]

THE QUEEN of TWO WORLDS: a

Novel. By LAURENCE BROOKE. 3 vols. 31s. 6d. [This day.]

"Mr. Brooke has put into his work much thought and careful workmanship, and he already possesses the not too common gift of an easy and cultivated literary style. Altogether the book is intrinsically good, and is full of promise for the future."—Scotsman.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

SPECTATOR.

"The movement for the Endowment of Research is no longer the impracticable crusade which it appeared to be twelve months ago. The activity of its promoters, and the unexpected sympathy which it has inspired in official quarters, have enabled it to make its way into the arena of practical politics. In the struggle which is being carried on as to University reform, it is one of the forces which must be calculated for, and it is therefore extremely important that we should understand its direction and its aim. The volume before us throws welcome light upon much that was before vague or enigmatical in the programme of the new party."

WORLD.

"In the speech in which he introduced the Oxford Reform Bill, Lord Salisbury made himself the mouthpiece of the authors of Essays in aid of the Endowment of Research."

SATURDAY REVIEW.

"It is, then, a little remarkable that not one of them has even attempted to grapple with the real difficulties of the question."

ATHENAEUM.

"It is something, however, to have pointed out the want, and to have promoted its public recognition. We may now look confidently for future improvement to a set of opinion which has already far outrun the most sanguine anticipations of those who, when they originally appealed to it, did so with scarcely a hope of immediate success."

EXAMINER.

"The object of these essays is to expound a new conception of the proper employment of University endowments; or rather, as the writers seem disposed to put it, to recal men's minds to an old conception which has fallen into neglect."

ACADEMY.

"These essays, which are all written by advocates of what is called Endowment of Research in the Universities, will help to remove many false impressions on that subject. It will be clear from them that all that has been found to be good and useful at Oxford and Cambridge may remain undisturbed, and that there are ample resources to add to it all that the most ardent reformers can desire. The idea of changing the English into German Universities, of suppressing the College system, of substituting professorial for tutorial teaching, is not even mooted in any of these Essays. They are all occupied with the question how the present system of University education can be rendered more efficient, and how, by the side of it, or in the midst of it, all that is good in the German Universities, and much that even German Universities have not hitherto attempted, may be superadded."

MACMILLAN'S MAGAZINE.

"This volume of Essays pleads for the general recognition of principles which would aim at making our Universities the homes of more men like Professor Max Müller. . . . It is not urged that academical revenues should be devoted to that purpose exclusively."

LITERARY CHURCHMAN.

"This remarkable volume is the outward sign of an unmistakable 'set' which ideas are taking in our generation; and it is, moreover, the proof that scientific studies have entered upon a new phase. . . . It is certainly an astonishing volume."

ECHO.

"This volume contains the best information extant on a subject which, although of national importance, is as yet but imperfectly understood by the general public."

GLOBE.

"The present volume is a thoughtful contribution to the discussion of the subject."

TIMES.

"It is an injustice to an essay so brilliant and so suggestive as Mr. Pattison's to present it to our readers in the above brief and imperfect summary. It deserves the careful attention of all who are interested in the question of University organisation and reform. There can be no doubt that the question raised by Mr. Pattison in his concluding words will have to be discussed, and in some manner settled by the new Oxford Commissioners."

PALL MALL GAZETTE.

"Several of the earlier essays are of value in clearing the ground of the question. In particular, Mr. Cotton's essay on the intentions of the founders of fellowships is well worth study. . . . Dr. Appleton shows quite conclusively that the Endowment of Education is economically unsound in principle, and with great plausibility that the Endowment of Research is economically sound. . . . Assuming, as it is safe to assume, that some considerable reduction of the number of fellowships will take place, the question arises, What is to be done with the money? and the extreme difficulty of suggesting any more satisfactory answer than that offered by the advocates of the Endowment of Research gives the real strength to their proposals."

STANDARD.

"All our sympathies are with Mr. Pattison and his friends."

NATURE

"Widely as we should wish to see this book read amongst the laymen of science, the Philistines and those who prophesy to them, politicians and practical reformers, it will certainly be found quite as valuable as by any of these by men of science. Men of science will find in the present volume data and suggestions which should aid them greatly, at this critical moment, to determine what they will urge upon the Government, as the fit relationship between the State and scientific research. . . . The eminence and competency of the writers give it an overwhelming force of authority and reason."
